HAMMER MUSEUM ANNOUNCES FIVE FINALISTS FOR THE MOHN AWARD

Public Voting to Select Recipient Will Commence Today

Los Angeles—The Hammer Museum has announced five finalists for the inaugural Mohn Award. Funded through the generosity of Los Angeles philanthropists and art collectors Jarl and Pamela Mohn, the $100,000 award will be granted over two years to one artist from the exhibition Made in L.A. 2012 and will be accompanied by the publication of a book on the finalist's work. While a jury of professional curators selected the five finalists from among the 60 artists in the exhibition, the Mohn Award recipient will be chosen by visitors to the exhibition through online and on-site voting. Public voting will commence on June 28 at 12pm. The public is asked to choose their favorite artist from the five jury-selected finalists.

MOHN AWARD JURY STATEMENT

“Each of the five artists selected presented ambitious projects that intrigue the viewer and offer a compelling example of the concerns and working methods that inform and drive their art-making. Their installations and performances showcased in Made in L.A. 2012 demonstrate the ways in which these artists are pushing the boundaries of their respective mediums, activating the gallery in thoughtful ways, and sometimes even going beyond it through performances, workshops, and other means of engagement. Beyond their strong contributions to the exhibition, we feel confident that these artists will continue to contribute to the field and participate meaningfully in the conversations and debates that characterize contemporary art practices well into the future. While the selection process was completely open, we are pleased that this selection of artists exemplifies the range of materials, ethnicities, gender, and age represented in the overall exhibition. Because we appreciate the efforts of all the artists in the exhibition, this was a tough decision to reach and one that required much discussion and debate. We offer our congratulations to the finalists.”

MOHN AWARD JURY:

- Cecilia Alemani, curator and director of High Line Art Program
- Doryun Chong, associate curator at the Museum of Modern Art
- Rita Gonzalez, curator of contemporary art at LACMA
- Anthony Huberman, independent curator and writer

MADE IN L.A. 2012

The Mohn Award was established in conjunction with the inauguration of Made in L.A. 2012, a biennial exhibition highlighting emerging and overlooked artists from the Los Angeles region. Jarl and Pamela Mohn's commitment to the award will be ongoing in future years. Made in L.A. 2012 features 60 artists and three venues throughout the city: the Hammer Museum in Westwood, the Department of Cultural Affairs' Los Angeles Municipal Art Gallery at Barnsdall Park in Los Feliz, and LA><ART in Culver City.

PUBLIC VOTING

Visitors to Made in L.A. 2012 may register to vote on-site at all three exhibition venues (Hammer Museum, LA><ART, and the Los Angeles Municipal Art Gallery) and may only vote once they are registered. A photo ID is required. Once registered, a voter may cast his or her vote on-site or online at <http://vote.madeinla2012.org>. This process ensures that each voter has actually attended the exhibition and that each person can only cast one vote. The Hammer is working with Trofee, a state certified digital voting platform, to ensure that the voting is secure and the results are authenticated.

Voter registration opened to the public on June 2, 2012. Voting begins Thursday, June 28, at 12pm PST and ends on Sunday, August 12 at 11:59PM PST. The finalist will be announced soon after.
